The Sun Dance.

The annual Sun Dance of the Uintah Indians commenced last Saturday evening June 22nd, with about 50 Indians in the ring The dance stopped last Tuesday noon One new feature of the dance was the 50 cents admission fee, charged to all who wished to see the performance Such a thing as charging admission at a Sun Dance is heretofore an unheard of feature, a money making scheme attached to what is thought to be the Ute Indian's worship dance